

Kentucky State Fire School

Lexington, KY
June 5-9, 2024

203 Modern Fire Service Leadership

Today's fire service is an ever-changing profession. Recently, many studies have been done on firefighting tactics that are producing hard to swallow changes and catchy phrases like "hitting it hard from the yard" and "beware of the flow path". One must ask themselves, "are we re-inventing the wheel, or do we really need to better understand our trade?" This course will discuss today's fireground and how we need to understand our enemy in order to achieve success. Modern building hazards and fire dynamics will be discussed as well tactical considerations such as search, VEIS, and ventilation. The importance of proper wearing of PPE and a discussion on the increase of maydays in the fire service will also be reviewed. This is a must attend program that will be valuable to all ranks from probie to chief of department.

This class addresses modern fire service issues such as:

- Diversity/EEO
- Modern-Day Tactics
- Politics
- Physical Fitness
- Training
- Traditions
- Proper Wearing of PPE
- Millennials

The emphasis will be on the role of the company officer / senior firefighter.

This 1-day course will be offered on Thursday.

Co-Instructor: Mark Gregory, PL Vulcan Fire Training Concepts

Co-Instructor: Chris Black, PL Vulcan Fire Training Concepts

2024 Kentucky State Fire School
Central Bank Center
410 W. Vine Street, Lexington, KY