21. Building Tomorrow's Leaders with Passion and Pride

This course is for any officer in an emergency service organization. Whether a newly appointed Sergeant or a seasoned Chief Officer, this course will identify what you need to know when dealing with people. This class will dig into different types of leadership and the effect that leadership has on your department. We will look into the responsibility of leadership and how the attitudes of your firefighters could lead to your success or demise. Be prepared to look at your "Vision" for your department: you may then be able to evaluate whether you are heading in the right direction. "Passion and Pride" are key elements for building relationships and thus dealing with fewer personnel and stressful issues.

This class will only be offered on Saturday.
